Hoardings

Last Modified April 14, 2026

A hoarding is used to separate a works area. For example a building site or renovation works to a property from the general public. It can be constructed in many ways:

- Timber posts and panels or
- Free standing manufactured panels
- Fencing.

Any hoarding that encroaches or impacts on the public highway requires a licence.

Hoarding licences are generally issued to construction firms or building contractors as:

- These can meet the requirements of erecting and maintaining the hoarding
- Have the appropriate public liability insurance and
- Can meet the terms and conditions of the licence

Fees

A fee of £65 per week or part week is payable.
