After you report a dog

Once an aggressive dog has been reported to us our dog wardens will investigate.

Where we can identify the owners they could be ordered to do any or all of the following, especially if the offender is already known to us. Examples of these requirements can include:

- Attend dog training classes
- Muzzle the dog or require it to be on a lead in public
- Require the dog to be neutered
- Repair fencing to prevent the dog leaving the property
- Limit the number of dogs to walked in a public area

Fines and imprisonment

It’s against the law to let a dog be out of control anywhere. This includes both public and private property.

Any dog owner that refuses to control their dog risks the following sentences:

- Up to 14 years for a fatal dog attack
- 5 years for injury
- 3 years for an attack on an assistance dog
- A fine up to £20,000
