Consultations and other engagement

Last Modified April 15, 2026

Details of Blackpool Council's current consultations and engagement activities, as well as our surveys, giving you the chance to have your say on specific matters and issues. The engagement activities and consultations listed below are those, which are being overseen by the in-house Infusion Research team.

Surveys play an important role in helping the council to understand what our residents, service users, local businesses, and sometimes visitors, think about council run services i.e. what's working and what isn't.

Surveys also provide valuable data about how local services are seen to change over time, including people's preferences and expectations. View the council's privacy notices on how we handle your data.
